JUVENILE BANDITS CAUGHT

POLICE DEPARTMENT ARREST ARMED SUSPECTS WITH RTIC HELP

By Danny Jones

SAN FRANCISCO—On May 1, the San Francisco Police Department announced that armed suspects were arrested thanks to the help of the Real Time Investigation Center (RTIC).

The SFPD reported that on March 27, at approximately 1:53 p.m., officers responded to a business on the 1200 block of South Van Ness Avenue regarding a subject making threats and brandishing a firearm at a victim. Upon arrival, officers met with the victim, who stated he was involved in a verbal altercation with two unknown subjects inside the grocery store.

After the altercation, the two subjects fled from the scene but returned shortly after and brandished a firearm while making threats towards the victim. The subjects left the area on a scooter.

Officers working in the RTIC quickly obtained photographs of the suspects and sent them out to patrol officers, who observed the suspects in the area of 8th and Market Streets and coordinated a plan to safely take the suspects into custody. After a brief foot pursuit, officers took the suspects into custody and recovered a firearm with an extended magazine from one of the suspects.

Through the course of the investigation, officers developed probable cause to place both juvenile male suspects under arrest.

The first juvenile male suspect was transported to the Community Assessment and Referral Center (CARC) and was cited for conspiracy (182 PC) and resisting an officer (148(a)(1) PC).

The second juvenile male suspect was transported to the Juvenile Justice Center (JJC) and booked for carrying a loaded firearm (25850 PC), minor in possession of a firearm (29610 PC), armed with a firearm in the commission of a felony (12022 PC), brandishing a firearm (417(a)(1) PC), and criminal threats (422 PC).

Due to the suspects' ages, their identities will not be released. The SFPD is still investigating the case. Anyone with details should contact the SFPD at 1-415-575-4444 (opens in a new window) or Text-A-Tip to TIP411 (opens in a new window), beginning the message with 'SFPD'.

GAP CO-FOUNDER DORIS FISHER DIES

By Connie Chu

SAN FRANCISCO—The co-founder of the popular clothing retailer, the Gap, Doris Fisher died on Saturday, May 2. Doris was born Doris Lee Feigenbaum on August 23, 1931. She died at the age of 94 surrounded by family. Her death was announced on Monday, May 4.

She co-founded the first Gap store in San Francisco on Ocean Avenue with her husband, Donald Fisher, in 1969. All credit was given to her for naming the store after the “generation gap.” In 1953, she married Fisher.

At Gap, she worked as Gap’s merchandising and the brand’s consultant, shaping its growth by influencing its style and identity until 2003, when she left the company.

In 2009, her husband and co-founder, Fisher, died of cancer at the age of 81. In 2011, she was inducted into the California Hall of Fame.
